Properly Accommodating Passengers with Disabilities and Other Special-Needs Passengers

Our policies are intended to ensure full compliance with all federal regulations regarding passengers with disabilities, including providing transportation to, from, and between gates, and assisting passengers with disabilities during the boarding and deplaning process.

In addition, we will work to ensure children travelling alone remain safe and comfortable during their flight. For more information, refer to our contract of carriage section

Lengthy Tarmac Delays

During lengthy tarmac delays we will keep passengers timely informed on the status of the delay. Within three hours for domestic flights and four hours for international flights, we will return to the gate and allow passengers to deplane, unless it is unsafe to do so. During a lengthy tarmac delay, we will offer water and snacks within two hours of either leaving the gate or landing, and ensure the lavatories remain accessible.

For more information, please see our Tarmac Delay Contingency Plan.

Oversales

We will treat any passenger denied boarding due to an oversold flight with fairness and consistency. In the event a flight is oversold, we will first solicit volunteers to give up their seats. In the event there are not enough volunteers, we may deny boarding to passengers pursuant to our contract of carriage. Certain passengers denied boarding will be eligible for compensation.

For more information, please see our Contract of Carriage.
